

RMS INSTA-POLL

“Would you be willing and able to scan some or all of your covers and post them on a cover reference web site for all collectors to see?”

[March - 90 responding]

YES	NO
53	37

A sampling of some of the affirmative comments:

-Willing? Yes! But I would want to learn more first; scanning 12-16 covers at a time in my conventional method (a scanner) would be a prohibitive chore.

-Intriguing idea -- almost like making convention displays, but without the creativity.

A sampling of some of the negative comments:

-Too much work at my age.

-No, I'm not at the stage where I'm that well organized with my covers. I also don't have the technology .

-I would be willing to do that, except I don't have a color scanner, only a B&W one.

-What a job that would be to scan all my covers. I would be willing to scan certain subjects, like house cats or Native Americans. At the moment, I don't have a scanner.

-I would have to say no because it would take a long time to scan even a part of the covers I have. It is a great idea, but I am trying to find the time just to complete organizing what I have waiting to be processed.

-I would if I could... I don't OWN a computer/scanner.

-No. I'm sorry, but I just don't have the time.

-This is a great idea. Sad to say I do not have the time or a scanner in order to do this.

-I'm able but I'm not sure that I am that willing to spend that kind of time and money. My interest would only be in a relatively few covers, ie, those issued by Disneyworld which are limited in number and are of interest to me. Thousands and thousands of scanned covers - boring and a waste of time.